A local newspaper says this Charles was born in Holland (I) & came to America before the Revolution; that he settled near "Spanish Hill" (near Barton); then that he settled on Shepard's Creek.

One family tradition is that he came from Bucks Co., Pa. about the time of the Wyoming massacre, 1778, & settled on Shepherd's Creek, just above Waverly, N.Y.

Another tradition says he came, originally, from Conn. & was a farmer.

According to the "History of Tioga Co." he came to the Wyoming Valley before the massacre of 1778; but with his family escaped it by stealing away in a boat. Then returning in 1779 he settled near Barton.

In a list of names (headed by Earl of Salisbury) of charter granted, May 23, 1609, by King James I enlarging the powers of the "Treasurer & Company of Adventurers & Planters, of the City of London, for the first colony in Virginia", so as to include certain of the nobility, gentry, merchants &c, from Bristol, Exeter & Plymouth.

Vol. XII, p. 693 - Law passed Dec. 10, 1788 releasing from escheat to the State of Virginia, certain lands in King William Co., Va., accruing on the death of Roscow Cole Bingham, he having died intestate. These lands he had inherited from his father Stephen Bingham.

But for the impediment of half-blood, Stephen Bingham (half brother ? or son ?) would have been the heir of Roscow Cole Bingham; & their passage to him was confirmed.

Virginia History, Vol. II, p. 382

In 1819 emigrated with his father from Va. to Saline Co., Mo.
About 1830 left the home farm & moved to Boonville, Cooper Co., Mo., a short distance down the Missouri river. There he apprenticed himself to a cabinet maker & learned that trade. While he was there, Gilbert Stuart, the celebrated portrait painter, came to Boonville to paint the portraits of some of the wealthy residents.
Stuart discovered that young George had undeveloped artistic talent & advised him to study. So he studied for a time in St. Louis & soon became sufficiently proficient to earn his way.

Later he studied & painted in Phila. & Washington & spent 1856-9 studying in Düsseldorf, Germany. He became well known as an artist in Missouri. Some of his work was engraved & published. He himself writes that his best known engravings are "Jolly Flat-boatmen"; "Stump Speaking," & "The County Election".

He was also prominent in public life. He was originally an old time Whig & represented Saline Co. in the Missouri State Legislature before the war (1861-5). Though strongly attached to the South for family & other reasons, he was an uncompromising opponent of Secession & a staunch Union man.

He was a Capt. of U.S. Volunteers, 1861-2

He was Treasurer of the State of Missouri in 1862, during Lincoln's administration.

He opposed the reconstruction methods of the republican party after the civil war &, with Gen. Frank P. Blair & others, joined the Democratic party.

In 1855 lived at Independence, Jackson Co., Mo.

Suggestion for search of origin of Philadelphia Benjamins

The Annual Genealogical & Biographical Record says
"In a list of persons who purchased land from John Fenwick or
"William Penn & settled on the tract of the East Jersey Society,
"were the names of John Binham & Mary, his wife, who came from "London. This Binham was a goldsmith.

"The Historic Mansions & Buildings of Philadelphia" by Thompson Westcott, Phila., Porter & Coates, 1877, gives a very interesting history of this truly distinguished American family, from which the following main facts are taken:-

p.337 James Bingham died in 1714, leaving considerable landed property. He was a blacksmith (it is also said, a shoemaker)

p.349 & was buried at Christ Church, Phila., Dec.22, 1714.

James, his son, added to the possessions of the family by marrying a daughter of William Budd of Burlington, N.J.

William his son, (3d gen.) added still more by marrying, in 1745, Mary, daughter of Alderman & Mayor John Stamper. (Living witnesses say this William had only one brother who died unmarried - March, 1900)

William of Lansdowne, his son (4th gen.), had two brothers who both died unmarried, according to Bingham's living in March, 1900. This William was born at Phila., 8 Apr., 1752. Graduated at the College of Philadelphia in 1768. Was British consul at St. Pierre Mynera in the West Indies, where he amassed great wealth. Later he was Agent of the Continental Congress at Martinique for some years.

In 1786 he was elected member of the Congress of the Confederation & served until 1789.

In 1789 he was captain of a troop of dragoons & escorted Mrs. Washington on her journey to New York to join her husband, then President-elect.

In 1790 he was elected member of the General Assembly of Penna. & chosen Speaker.

In 1795 he was U.S.Senator from Penna. & held that office until 1801.

Benjermin Moore, in his "Official Register & Congressional Directory", 1776-1878, says he was born in 1751 - was elected President, 10-term, of the U.S.Senate, 16 Feb., 1797 - published in 1784 "A letter from an American on the Subject of the

in 1793 "A Description of certain Tracts of Land in Maine" from which it may be inferred that he was the owner of the great "one million Acre" or, it is said, one million acres in that State.

The compiler of this book was personally informed, in 1900, by U.S.Senator Eugene Hale of Maine, that this grant of one million acres ~~was~~ made & that his (Hale's) ancestors had then only recently sold off the last of it for the family, then practically represented by Sir Isaac Pains, bankers, of London. There is a town of Bingham, Me., on this grant.

It is also a fact that Bingham, N.Y. was founded on land belonging to this William Bingham; & named after him.

Resuming Westcott's story: -

Upon his return from the West Indies, William Pingham married the beautiful Ann Willing, daughter of Thomas W. Willing, Oct. 26, 1780. They made a visit to Europe & were accorded special distinction at various Courts, where they were intimate friends of the American Ministers, 1784-86. Mrs. Pingham is specially & frequently mentioned in letters from Mrs. (John) Adams & others as admired for her brilliant social qualities.

This Mr. & Mrs. Pingham were very intimate with all the leaders of the new American Republic, including the Kennings. It was they who persuaded Washington to sit to Stuart; & they presented a Stuart portrait of Washington to the Marquis of Lansdowne, and was a friend of the Willing family.

They lived in a real deal of style outside of Philadelphia, at a place called "Lansdowne", now part of Fairmount Park. The historic house has, however, been torn down & its site is no longer known.

Mrs. Ann (Willing) Pingham died in Bermuda May 11, 1801, aged 37. (Providence R.I., Gazette says she died 6 Jan., 1801). Mr. Pingham went to Europe shortly afterwards & died at Bath, England in 1804. He is buried in Bath Cathedral where there is a tablet to his memory. This was copied June 2, 1899 by Mary V. H. _____ for Mrs. Marie (Pingham) Wilson, as follows: -

Nothing appears to be known or, at least, published, regarding the antecedents of the progenitor of this family, James Binham, the blacksmith or scudler or goldsmith, who died in 1714 & was buried in Christ Church, Phila. Search in the PennaHist. Society at Philadelphia revealed nothing.

For pedigree of Gen. Henry H. Binham of Phila., see under Irish descent.

Extract from "Lippincott's Magazine" for July, 1899, p. 92 - "The 'Salon' in Old Philadelphia" by Anne Hollingsworth Wharton.

A salon, less distinctly intellectual than that of Mrs. Ferguson, but full of grace & charm, was later held in the elegant drawing-room of Mrs. William Binham. Young, beautiful, highly connected & possessed of her wealth, Mrs. Binham entertained in her fine mansion on Third Street above Spruce, or at her country-seat, Lansdowne, in a style which has never been equalled in Philadelphia or perhaps in the Colonies. Mrs. Binham was a daughter of Mr. Thomas Willing, of the firm of Willing & Morris, who, in connection with his partner, Robert Morris, did good service to the patriot cause by advancing money for the use of the army & in inspiring others with confidence to follow their example. William Binham, Mr. Willing's son-in-law, upon one occasion subscribed five thousand pounds to the Bank of Pennsylvania for the purpose of supplying the army of the United States with provisions for two months; & this in one of the darkest hours of the struggle for liberty. This subscription was made near the time of Mr. Binham's marriage; & may have been given as a thank-offering in consequence of his great happiness in having won for his bride lovely sixteen-year-old Anne Willing.

In 1784 Mr. & Mrs. Binham visited London & Paris, in both of which cities the American beauty was greatly admired; & Mrs. Binham, being possessed of social tastes as well as distinguished ability, made many friends abroad, some of whom visited at Binham's in their own home. Among their English friends was the Marquis of Lansdowne, after whom the Binhams named their beautiful country-seat upon the west bank of the Schuylkill; & for him Mrs. Binham had a full-length portrait of President Washington painted by Stuart.

Of Mrs. Binham herself Gilbert Stuart painted more than one portrait. An attractive, Irish picture of the young wife & mother, with her children around her, is to be found upon a bare unfinished canvas of Stuart's which was probably intended to adorn a large wall-space at Lansdowne. Mr. Binham's horse has been brought to the door & he stands ready to mount it, while his wife playfully holds her infant son upon the horse's back. An older child, probably Anne Louise, who married the Hon. Alex. Farin, stands at one side watching the group. This picture was for many years in the possession of Miss Mary Clynor in Trenton, N.J.; & at her death became the property of Countess de Orgas, a great-niece of Mrs. Binham.

President Washington was a frequent visitor at the Binhams', his official & unofficial relations with Mr. Binham, who was United States Senator, being of the most friendly nature.

In addition to the elegance of her entertainments & the grace & charm of her own personality, Mrs. Bingham skillfully placed her in a position to draw around her the best & brightest elements in the life of the republican capital, while all strangers of distinction found their way to Mrs. Bingham's drawing-room by natural attraction.

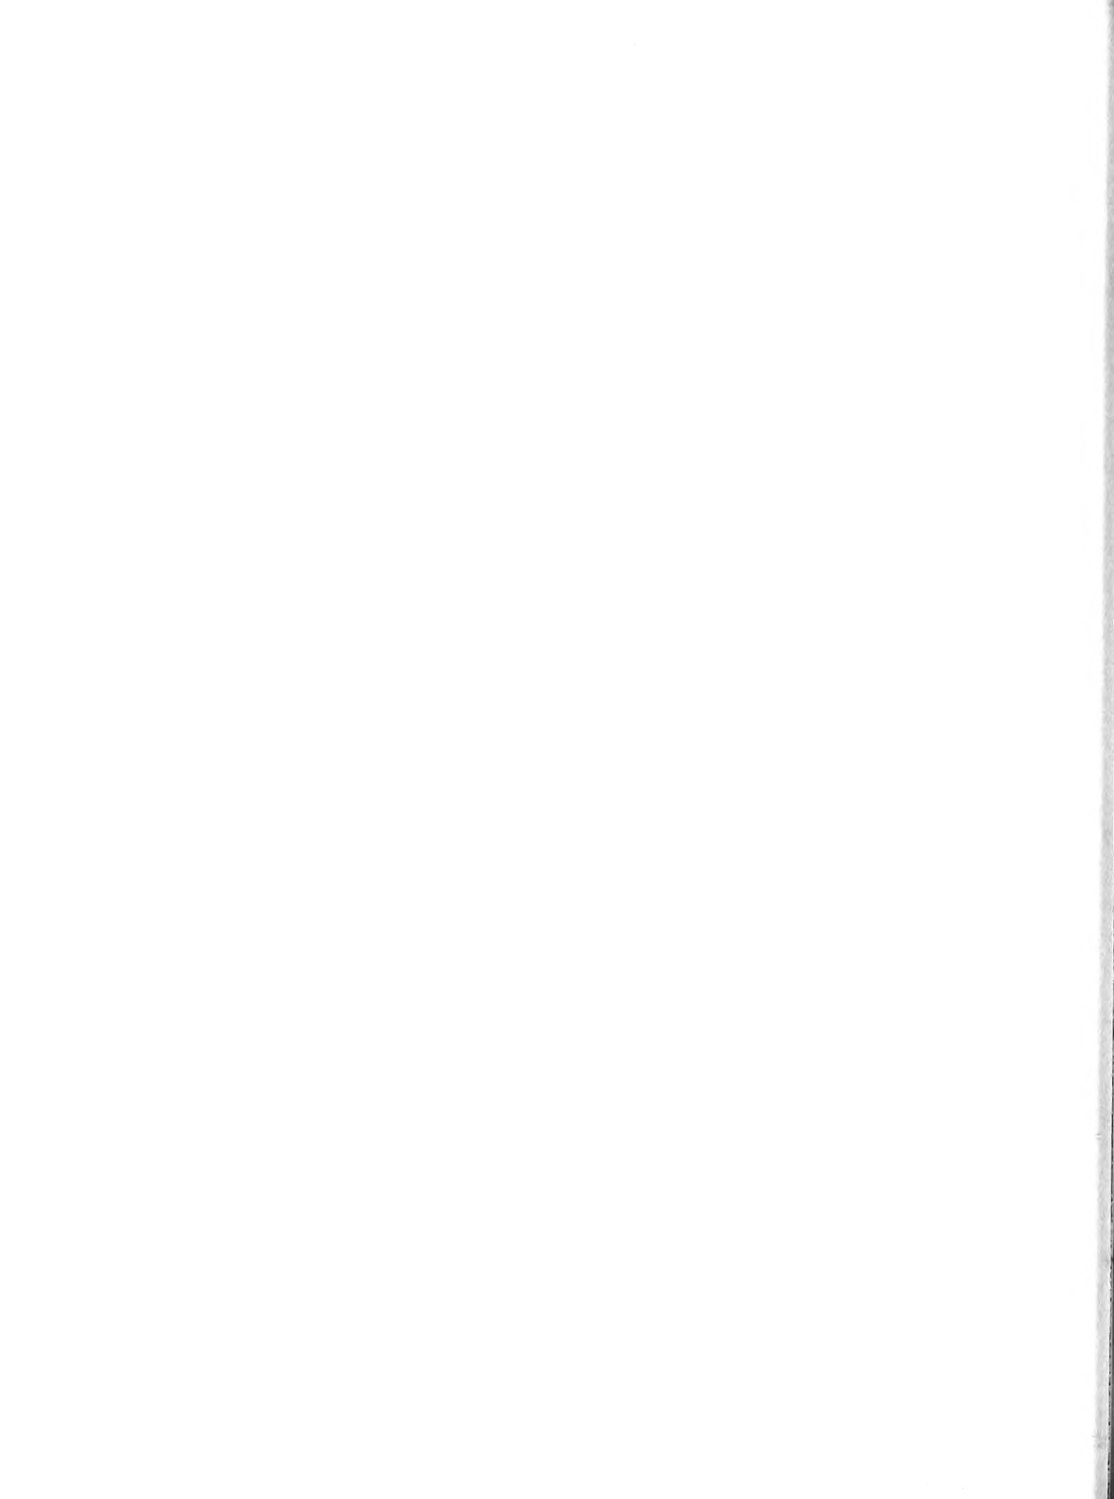

Major William Jackson, who was aide-de-camp & private secretary to President Washington, married Mrs. Bingham's sister Elizabeth. The wedding of Elizabeth Willing in her father's house, at the south-west corner of Third Street & Willing's Alley, was one of the brilliant social functions of the Washington administration. Mrs. Bingham acted the part of a mother to her younger sister; & assisted her father in receiving such honored wedding guests as President's Lady Washington, Mr. & Mrs. Robert Morris, Alexander Hamilton, General Knox, General Lincoln, a warm personal friend of the groom, & the Vicomte de Noailles, the brother-in-law of Elizabeth.

Major & Mrs. Jackson naturally added much to the attractions of Mrs. Bingham's entertainments, & with her sisters, Mrs. Henry, Clymer & Dorothy & Abigail Willing. Abigail, the youngest of Mr. Willing's daughters, was greatly admired by Louis Philippe, Duke of Orleans & entertainer king of the French. This young nobleman, during his residence in Philadelphia, was a frequent guest at the Willing's & Bingham's, where he saw Miss Willing surrounded by all the charm of social & domestic life. It is said that when the Duke of Orleans made his request for the hand of the youngest daughter of the house, Mr. Willing replied, with true republicanism, yet with the tact & grace of a courtier: "Should you ever be restored to your hereditary position, you will be too great a match for her; if not, she is too great a match for you".

Instead of the questionable fortune of Mary in a future king of France, there was reserved for Abigail Willing the more serene & less eventful career of becoming the wife of a Philadelphia lawyer. In 1804 Miss Willing married Richard Peters, who was for many years reporter to the U.S. Supreme Court.

In speaking of Mrs. Bingham to a social leader of aristocratic birth in Philadelphia, she said: "Her entertainments were distinguished not more for their superior style & frequency, than for the happy & discreet selection of her guests". Grace, charm, & refinement seem to have marked Mrs. Bingham's social career; & she was admired, loved & cherished wherever she appeared. The Marquis de Chastellux, writing of an entertainment in Philadelphia, said: "The Count de Damas had Mrs. Bingham for his partner; & the Vicomte de Noailles his shippon. Both of them, like true philosophers, testified a great respect for the manners of the country by not quitting their handsome partners the whole evening".

Flattered, admired & sought after, it is not strange that Mrs. Bingham should at times have been arbitrary, & even captious. When Thomas A. Smith opened the Chestnut Street theatre, Mrs. Bingham offered to hire one of the private boxes "at any price to be fixed by the manager"; & to decorate & furnish the box herself, provided she was to keep the key, & no person to be allowed to enter the box without her consent.

The proposition was certainly a complex one to a manager entering upon what then seemed a large financial venture. Mr. Wignell was sorely tempted. He recognized all the advantages to his theatre that would result from having one of his roles used by so great a social favorite & leader of fashion as Mrs. Ingham. But, on the other hand, he clearly realized, says Thomas Wood, that he must act "on the principles of his country's government & on the recognition of feelings deeply permeating the structure of its society; to keep all such from to come into his house & stay while they continued to be there & to leave themselves in it". In consideration of this democratic view of the situation Mr. Wignell, politely & with many expressions of gratitude for her consideration, declined Mrs. Ingham's offer & thus forfeited the patronage of the most influential woman in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Ingham, who was not used to denials, however, some persons say, never, entered the Philadelphia Theatre. It is interesting to learn that its success justified its management's policy; & that the Academy, in the end, suffered more than the manager, as many interesting representations were given at this theatre: & by such stars as Mrs. Clendenen; Mrs. Whitlock; Miss Morris; Mrs. Marshall; Mrs. Noble &c

Irish Descent

Binghams in America of Irish Descent

The Binghams in America of immediate Irish descent seem to come from two sources:

1. From near Belfast, County Down, in the northeastern part of Ireland. These seem to be all "Protestants" & some of them were rebels against the English government.

There was at Belfast, about 1650, a certain Col. Nicolas Pingham, of whom Cromwell wrote to Ireton "it is a pity one of that name should be a Mellicant". I think he must have belonged to the Sutton (Somerset) line & he was evidently a royalist. (See "Memoirs of the Bingham", London, 1915, Spottiswoode)

2. From County Mayo, in the northwestern part of Ireland. These belong to the Sutton-Somerset & Pingham-Melconke (Dorset) lines.

The first American settlers direct from Ireland have been classified in this book as follows:

- | | | |
|------------|---|--|
| A. William | } | Brothers who came over in 1793 from County Down, near Belfast, first to N.Y. City; whence they scattered |

Wingham in America

from

County Down, Ireland

Binghams in America from County Down, Ireland

It appears that several brothers came to the United States, in or about 1793, from County Down, Ireland. Col. Robert Bingham, Principal of the celebrated "Bingham School" at Asheville, N.C. (whose brother William wrote "Bingham's Latin Grammar") says that one of these brothers settled in New York; another in Tennessee; & another, his own ancestor, in Wilmington, N.C., where he established the now famous school, since removed to Asheville.

One of the Alabama Binghams says (Jan. 1899) that some or all of these brothers settled in N.Y. City, in the carriage business, in which they failed. That Samuel remained in New York; but that two, at least, of the brothers went to Phila.

The names of these brothers appear to have been, order of age unknown,:

A. - William B. - Thomas C. - Samuel D. - Joseph

The following would make it appear that three of the names should be James, Jr. John & Robert

Major W.F. Lynch, son of (A.1.), living in Sanford, Fla., in March 1893, says:

"My great-grandfather James Bingham, was Scotch-Irish & lived "near Londonderry in North Ireland. His eldest son succeeded to his "estate.

"My grandfather, Rev. William Bingham (A.) was born about 1753 & "emigrated to America soon after the American Revolution. His brothers, "except the eldest, were taught trades & had difficulty in leaving King "George's realm, on account of a law forbidding any tradesman from leaving the country. One of them, James, Jr., was barreled up & shipped on "board an American bound vessel as hardware; & released from his confinement after the vessel had reached the three-league limit from the "shore. The other brothers - three, I think, though I recall only John & "Robert - soon followed. There were others of the same family, children "of the brother of my great-grandfather James, who also came. One family "settled in New York; a second in Penna.; & a third in East Tennessee."

The Bingham of "Bingham School," Asheville, N.C.

Authority: Col. Robert Bingham, April, 1899.

The family is of Scotch-Irish descent & since Cromwell's time (1599-1658) had lived in County Down, Ireland.

The great-grandfather's name is not known (perhaps James) but he was probably imprisoned or otherwise restrained in one of the Irish risings of the latter part of the 18th century.

The grandfather was

A. Rev. William Bingham, B. _____, County Down, Ireland.

He was a first honor graduate of Glasgow University about 1784 & was regularly educated for the Church. But, owing to the political troubles above said, he came, with several uncles, to America about 1793. Before leaving Ireland he had engaged to take charge of a school in Wilmington, N.C. That was the beginning of the present "Bingham School" of Asheville, N.C.

d. Feb. _____, 1825 at Mt. Repose near Hillsboro, N.C.

m. Annie Jean Slingby, about 1796-9, at "Rock Rest"

She was dau. of Col. Slingby of the English army who had mar. Widow Isabelle (McNeil) McAlister of Bladen Co., N.C. - who already had a son, John McAlister. Col. Slingby died at Wilmington, N.C., a year or two after his marriage. Annie Jean spent a large part of her girlhood at Jones' School, "Rock Rest", Chatham Co., N.C. & was mar. there.

Ministers in the United States

from

County Mayo, Ireland

including

Hon. John A. Bingham of Cádiz, Ohio

E. Hugh

F. Robert

There seems to be little doubt that two brothers, named Hugh & Robert, did come from County Mayo, Ireland, to America in or about 1736; & that they probably first settled in Adams Co., Penna.

Mrs. Marie (Bingham) Wasson, of Cranford, N.J. in 1916, dau. of Hon. John A. Bingham of Cádiz, Ohio, gives the following account of their origin.

This account is believed to be correct in the main, but there are serious errors of detail.

Reference should be made to "Memoirs of the Bingham's" by Rose McCalmont, Spottiswoode, London, 1915.

Hutchin's History of Dorset, Vol. IV, p. 374 gives pedigree of the Melcombe-Bingham family of Dorset, England. There will be found

Sir Henry Bingham, L. 1573, of Castlebar, Co. Mayo, (in Northwest of Ireland), created Baronet, 1593, when 23 years of age, was ancestor of the Earls of Lucan.

Mrs. Wasson says this Sir Henry was appointed, in the 17th century, Governor General of the province of Connaught & Lord of the Barony of Erris. Also that there is, in Co. Mayo, a village named Binghamtown, near which is Bingham Castle, a seat of this Sir Henry, who, she says, was distinguished at Cromwell's siege of Londonderry. She also says

The family of Richard Bingham, descendant of Sir Henry, (requires proof) became separated in the 18th century; the oldest son succeeding to the family estates, while the younger sons, Hugh & Robert (requires proof), went to America about 1736; & settled on the Historical (where?) plantation Manor of Mazzo, along Marsh creek, in "Old York", now Adams Co., Penna., in the valley of the Susquehanna. This was the ground on which the second line was formed (Union) at the battle of Gettysburg.

Here the descendants of Hugh & Robert lived for more than 150 years (1736-1886 ?)

"The History of Washington Co., Md." says this Hugh was born in County Down, Ireland. But one of Hugh's descendants, George G. Bingham, who lived in 1901 at Weverton, Washington Co., Md., says that Hugh came from County Mayo.

Such history as I have been able to gather about this Hugh comes from 1) Mr. George G. Bingham

2) Mrs. Marie (Bingham) Wasson, as above said; & these accounts differ absolutely. I can only give them as they were given to me.

But my experience in these matters leads me to believe that any one interested can easily find out a great deal about this branch, by searching the records at Adams Co., Pa. & of Weverton & Baltimore, Md.

E. Hugh

Authority: History of Washington Co., Md.; George G. Bingham of Weverton, Md.;

E.1. Hugh Bingham. The history says "born in County Down, Ireland".
But Mr. G.G. Bingham says he was from County Mayo. The latter is thought more probable.

Came to America about 1736 & settled at Marsh Creek, Millerstown, now Fairfield, Adams Co., Pa. This appears to be the same as "Hugh, the settler" of Mrs. Wasson.

Hugh had with him a brother Robert; & perhaps another brother. Hugh remained in Penna. & fought in the Revolution

Mrs. Wasson relates the following:

During the stormy days after the war (1861-5), while John A. Bingham was a member of Congress, the city of Washington was visited by certain distinguished Englishmen, among whom was Mr. Dunbar, a connection of Lord Bingham, head of the Irish family of that name. Lord Bingham had heard of Hon. John A. Bingham, the American & of his career. He sent by Mr. Dunbar a copy of the ancient coat of arms of the Bingham family in Ireland, for presentation, with greetings to his American kinsman.

Mr. Dunbar visited the House of Representatives & came in while John A. Bingham was making his great speech on the reconstruction of the Union. Greatly attracted & interested, Mr. Dunbar naturally asked the name of the speaker & learned with surprise & pleasure that it was the very man for whom he had a message & gift from over the water.

When Mr. Dunbar returned & related his experience to Lord Bingham, the latter sent over an old autograph petition, with a printed copy of the same, made by their common ancestor, Sir Henry Bingham to the Queen of England.

Mrs. Wasson also writes:

John A. Bingham is descended on the maternal side from the Scotch families of Duncan, Pailey, Stuart & Armor.

Margaret Duncan, his gr. grandmother (or grandmother), came from Scotland or Ireland to America in her youth. The ship was in great danger from a storm; & if preserved she vowed to build a church. This was done & it still stands on Race St., near 16th, in old Phila. A marble tablet in the wall tells the story. It is known as the First United Presby. Church. She became later a friend of Washington & furnished supplies to the army at Valley Forge, the accounts for which were personally audited & approved by Washington.

John A. Bingham had a maternal grandfather, William Bailey, who was 2nd Lieut., Independent Light Inf., First Battalion, York Co., Pa., of the militia of Dec. 1775. The original constitution of this company is still on file in "Old York", Pa.

Captain in 1776

Major of Col. Michael Swope's Battalion in Nov. 1776. He was in the Battle of Long Island & captured at the fall of Fort Washington, Nov. 1776. Was probably exchanged soon after, as he appears again as captain & major in 1779. He is mentioned in Gilson's History of New York, p. 564.

Thomas Armor, another grandfather of John A. Bingham, was a member of the Revolutionary Committee of Safety for York Co., Pa., chosen Nov. 3, 1775; & secretary of the committee of which James Smith was chairman, who was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Mr. Armor, with four others, was commended to the Governor & Council of Penna., during the French & Indian War "as likeliest to raise companies, fit for service, in York Co., & as most acceptable to the people".

members of the family

This is one of the oldest of border Scotch families, often mentioned by Sir Walter Scott, whose mother was a Rutherford; & in old tales & ballads. The seat of the head of the family was at "Edgerston" near Jedburgh. One branch came to America before the Revolution & settled in Virginia, being associates of Lord Fairfax & George Washington. Another branch or part of the former was in South Carolina & there were pieces of money stamped on one side with the name.

New York Evening Post, Sunday, Jan. 2, 1915

Died on Saturday, July 31, 1914, at his home, 714 Madison Ave., N.Y. City, William Rutherford, son of the late William and Ann of John A. Rutherford & Co., of 20 Broad St.,

He was a descendant of Walter Rutherford, who came to America in 1756 & received a grant of 5000 acres in 1775 for his services during the French & Indian war.

His grandfather, Robert Walter Rutherford, was born in the family homestead, "The Grange," in New Jersey & was a member of the New Jersey Assembly & U. S. House of Representatives.

About 1792, after France had adopted her Republican Constitution, Dr. de Lallebaume left the country with the first two children by the first marriage, leaving the third, Theodore, an infant, & came to St. Louis, Mo., where he spent the rest of his life.

His will is on record in St. Louis, Book G, 3, 244, dated Nov. 22, 1817. In it he says:-

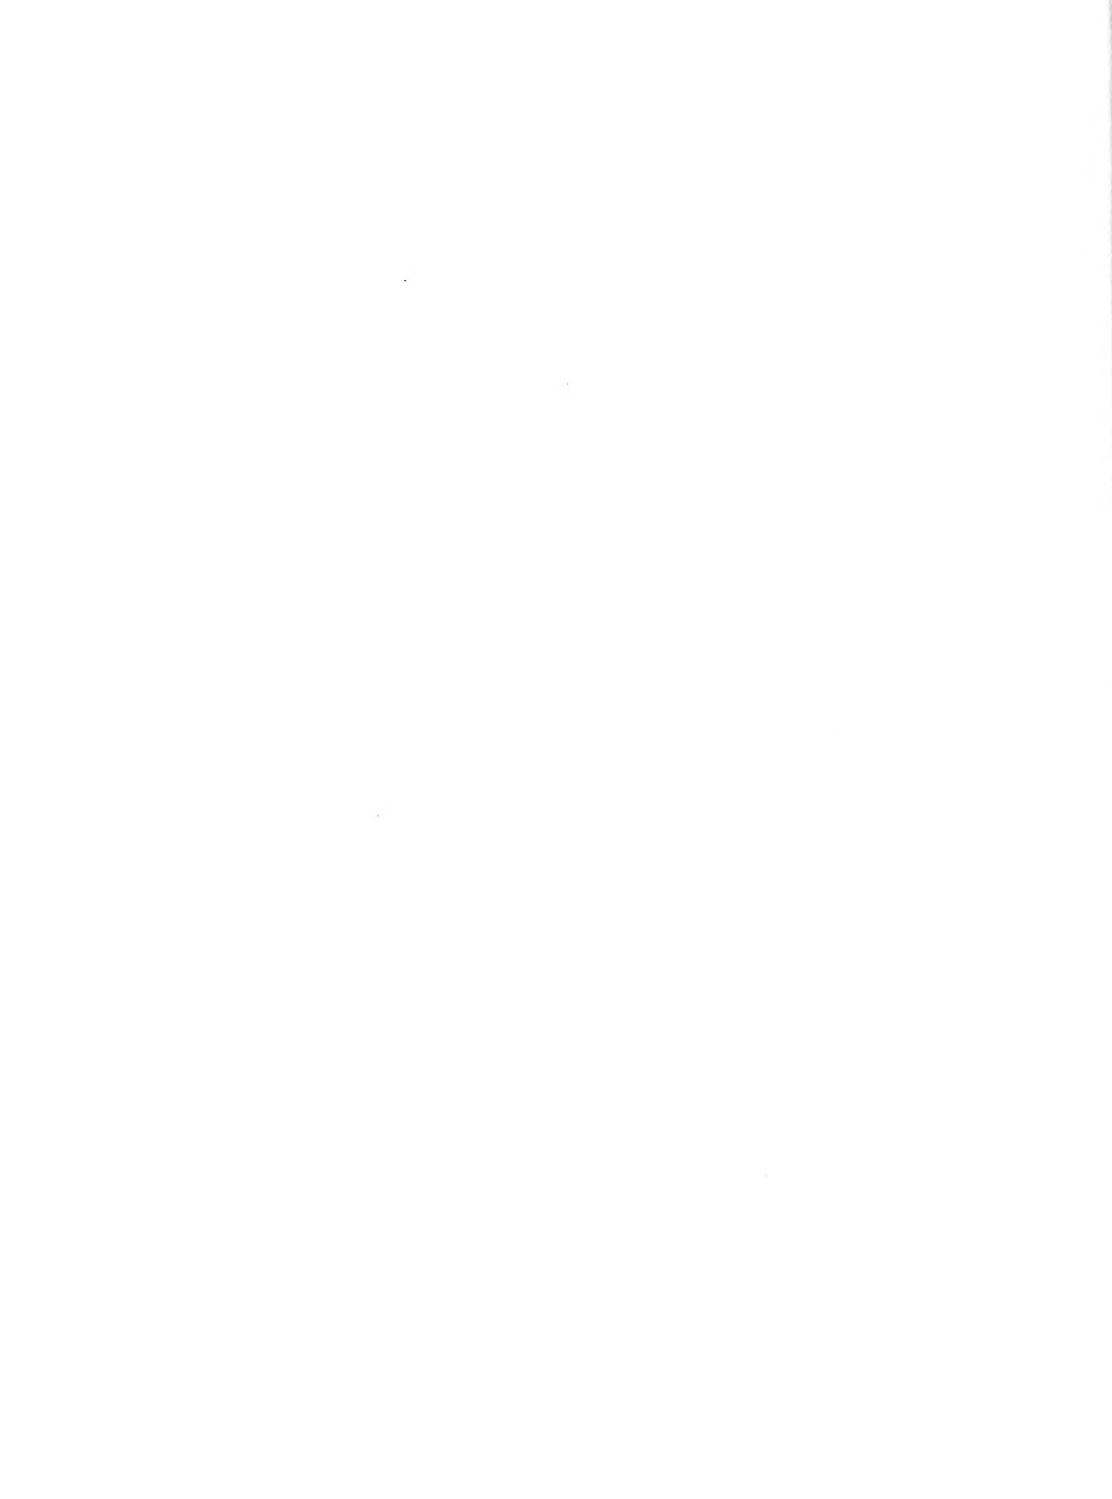

"There are left of my first wife, Adelaide Du Temple, two children, Pierre Auguste & Marie Lucille; & perhaps a third, named Theodore, when circumstances compelled me to leave in France, of whom I never could learn anything & who, I have reason to believe, is dead".

May 8, 1804, Dr. Lallebaume purchased from a Jno. J. Paquet a piece of land, 4 by 40 arpents 100, lying about five miles north of the village, on the road to old Fort Bellefontaine & now forming part of Bellefontaine cemetery. On this land he built a house of logs which was still standing a few years before 1880. Dr. Thomas S. Rutherford & his wife & Rosalie Tison remembered to sell. Here he lived until his death in 1824, leaving 10 adult children; & here his youngest children were born.

At that early period, the country around what is now (1860) "Beach" was called the "White Oak Prairie".

the early part of this compilation, before(7).

Dr. William B. Fotts (57) of Camden, N.J., who was probably the best authority on the subject, believed that this was the ancestor of the Grews in America. He lived in Shakespeare's time. He was a man of scholarship for that period & had some estate. As can be seen on his will, he wrote a beautiful signature, which was more than Shakespeare's father could do. He was "William" - probably a sort of city contractor to furnish bricks.

(Middletown, Conn.

Middletown

Conn.

Mr. Frank Farnsworth Starr, professional genealogist, of Middletown, Conn., under date of March 13, 1893, writes to Mrs. Susan Grew Bingham, wife of Rev. Dr. J. F. Bingham, of Hartford, Conn., as follows:-

Richard Johnson, mar. Mary Porter & lived in Middletown, Conn. in 1736-7. It is inferred they were the parents of Jonathan Johnson, b. (date not of record)

Sept. Feb. 13, 1736-7

Authorities:

F. F. Starr of Middletown, Conn.; Mrs. Rose Newell of 61 South Main St., Same town; Bingham & Grew family records;

Lieut. Col. JONATHAN JOHNSON

Sept. Feb. 13, 1736-7, Middletown, Conn. records

d. Dec. 4, 1815, records First Congregational Church, Middletown, Conn.; & tombstone in Mortimer cemetery.

He was a miller & farmer in Middletown & owned all of Hunting Hill, which is just over Panucha bridge. He also owned the greater part of Warwick St. & a portion of the southern end of South Main St.

While he was absent at the wars, his family lived quite near the Panucha bridge on South Main St. Mrs. Rose Newell remembers that her mother often said that "Grandpa Johnson's service in the army had much impoverished him".

In "Colonial Records of Connecticut" by Howdley, 1757-62, Vol. XI, page 227, Jonathan Johnson was by General Assembly made a Second Lieut., March 1759.

p. 353. He was again made Second Lieut., March 1760.

p. 485. He was made First Lieut., March 1761.

In the State Library, in the Capitol at Hartford, Conn., are a number of unpublished muster & pay rolls of the French & Indian Wars.

For the year 1758, there is a pay roll of Capt. Timothy Hierlihy's on which appears: "Sergeant Jonathan Johnson, enlisted March 28, discharged Nov. 16, served 33 weeks & 3 days, entire pay £.16.14.03."

For the year 1759, there is a pay roll of same captain's company, belonging to the First Conn. Regiment, Colonel (General) Phineas Lyman, on which appears: "Lieut. Jonathan Johnson, entered service March 22, discharged Dec. 16, served 38 weeks & 4 days at 25/ per week, full pay £.48.04.04."

In the book, "Record of Service of Connecticut Men" in the Revolution, War of 1812 &c, published by authority of the General Assembly, 1889, is found:

p. 414. Bradley's Battalion, Wadsworth's brigade, 1776, Capt. Jonathan Johnson, of Middletown, Conn., noted as re-entering, "Connecticut Line".

- p. 420 has a list of his company
- p. 193 under head of Fifth regiment, Conn. line, formation of 1777-81 is found:
Field & Staff, Lieut. Col. Jonathan Johnson, Middletown, commissioned major, Jan. 1, 1777; promoted lieut. col., vice Mead resigned, May 25, 1778 & continued in 1781.
- p. 322 under head of Second regiment, Conn. line, formation of 1761-83 is found:
Field & Staff, Lieut. Col. Jonathan Johnson, Middletown; continued from 1777-81, served to June, 1783
- p. 360 under head of Second regiment, Conn. line, formation of Jan. - June, 1783, is found:
Field & Staff, Lieut. Col. Jonathan Johnson, Middletown; continued from 1781-83, retired with the army, 1783.
- p. 373 Lieut. Col. Jonathan Johnson of Middletown, is recorded as one of the original members of the Society of the Cincinnati; time of service, June 10, 1776.

It is, therefore, more than tradition in the family, as shown by the first part of the above record, that Col. Johnson served seven years in the French & Indian wars.

He is also said to have been engaged ~~in~~ at Germantown & Monmouth & to have wintered at Valley Forge, 1777-8.

In a monthly journal or "orderly book", Lieut. Col. Gray, makes frequent reference to Lieut. Col. Jonathan Johnson & reports them both as being at West Point & Peekskill at the time of the arrest of Major Andre. This journal later reports them at Orangetown, N.J.

CLARA Pedigree

The following was compiled from sundry published volumes of family records & from church records of Milford, Conn.; & Probate records at New Haven, Conn.

1. GEORGE Clark, with his wife Sarah & two children, emigrated from England to America in 1637, in company with Rev. John Davenport & his congregation (from Kent & Surrey, near London), together with several other persons of wealth & respectability - the whole forming a considerable colony, who, early in 1637, left England to escape persecution on account of their religious belief & to take up their abode in the New World. They landed at Boston, Mass., where they remained about one year. But for several reasons Mr. Davenport, Rev. Mr. Prudden & their companions decided to leave Boston & make their permanent settlement at New Haven, Conn., then known by the Indian name of Quinnipiack. They sailed from Boston March 30, 1638 & reached Quinnipiack in about two weeks. Rev. Mr. Davenport preached his first sermon there on the 1st of April, 1638.

In the year 1639 a part of Mr. Davenport's congregation, including George Clark, (1), Peter Prudden & several others, removed from New Haven & settled at Milford, then known by its Indian name of Wopowage, it being about ten miles west of New Haven. They organized a church at Milford, August 2, 1639, with Rev. Peter Prudden for minister & on the same day the church at New Haven was organized with Rev. Mr. Davenport as minister.

George Clark (1) continued to reside at Milford during the remainder of his life. He was a "free planter" & a man of considerable property & influence, being much respected in the church & in the community. He was many times Deputy or Representative from Milford to the General Court of New Haven & Connecticut, the two colonies being separate & distinct until their union, May 11, 1665, under the name Connecticut.

He died in August, 1690, about 80 years of age, leaving a good estate, as appears by his will, dated April 25, 1689; & recorded in New Haven. His wife Sarah died July 19, 1689.
